How to setup hp eprint on ipad

Those lamenting the choices in the battle against Apple's iPad are now being given two options from Hewlett Packard: WebOS or Windows. The announcement late last week by HP execs said that they will create tablets for both operating systems, rumored to be called the Windows Slate and the PalmPad. But just how good a buy will these tablets be for your business? Here are five reasons to consider one. 1. Web OS Although the Windows Slate has been nothing short of a disappointment, and is seemingly forever in development, the nimble WebOS—which HP acquired when it purchased Palm—is deemed capable and praised by critics. It may be HP's saving grace for its PalmPad, which can now compete head-to-head with Apple's iOS and Android systems. 2. Windows (Yes, Windows) While many have crucified the HP Slate prototypes, let's face it, few offices use something other than Windows. For better or worse, Windows is most companies' OS of choice, and it's easier to have all machines, even tablets, running the same platform. Although the HP Slate looks clunkier than the iPad, it's also a full-bodied PC with USB ports, front and rear cameras, Adobe Flash capability, and memory card slots galore. It's definitely not just a gadget; it's meant for work. Isn't that what your employees are being paid for? 3. The HP Reputation Apple's favorable reputation, at least lately, is based on its mobile devices, not desktops, but HP makes all kinds of reliable office hardware, from computers to printers to scanners. Many business owners may find that kind of reputation and customer service comforting when looking to purchase a tablet computer. Plus, an HP tablet will be able to use the WebOS, which could run on peripherals as well as mobile devices—something new and nimble for its hardware. How cool would it be to be able to use a printer from your mobile phone? 4. The HP Business Relationship Buying from HP could be beneficial to business owners because the computer hardware company would likely give purchasing deals and discounts, and streamline purchase orders. Using the same company would mean IT managers would only need to contact one vendor and use only one help desk (especially if your company already contracts out IT services to HP-owned EDS.) HP has spent the last two decades wooing corporate clients and business owners with reliable and hardworking machines, and it knows how to treat its business clients well. 5. Increased Competition While the HP offerings are new, they're worth reviewing and considering as one of the only alternatives to the iPad niche. Although most are happy with iPad functionality, the new WebOS platform will likely create a product that will meet most business needs. The only problem is that it needs to be successful to make way for any real competition with Apple. While no business should take on an inferior product to create an open market, business owners need to partake and explore other options to ensure a better marketplace. While HP still lacks the thousands of applications available from Apple, it's likely the company will start creating an application market by its PalmPad launch in January, possibly with more of an emphasis on business clients. Although Apple's iPad has an amazing amount of buzz and cachet with consumers, HP's tablets may prove more functional for business users. Learn how to print from your iPhone, iPad, or iPod touch to an AirPrint-enabled printer. Confirm that your printer supports AirPrint. Contact your printer's manufacturer for details. Make sure that your iPhone, iPad, or iPod touch and your printer are connected to the same Wi-Fi network and that you're within range. Open the app that you want to print from. To find the print option, tap the app's share icon — or — or tap . Scroll down and tap or Print. If you can't find the print option, check the app's User Guide or Help section. Not all apps support AirPrint. Tap Select Printer and choose an AirPrint-enabled printer. Choose the number of copies or other options, like which pages you want to print. Tap Print in the upper-right corner. While printing, you can view your print jobs or cancel them through the App Switcher. To view a print job, open the App Switcher, then tap Print Center. AirPrint works with Wi-Fi or wired network connections. AirPrint devices connected to the USB port of an Apple AirPort Base Station or AirPort Time Capsule, or to your computer using Bluetooth connection, can't use AirPrint. If so then it just needs to be on the same wifi network as your iPad - there is info on AirPrint and the models that support it here. If it's not one of those models then HP also have their own ePrint app, or there are third-party printer apps such as Print Central For iPad and Print n Share which might work with it. CCO/andreas160578/Fixabuy HP printers are some of the best for home and office use. When problems occur, however, it can be frustrating troubleshooting cryptic errors. Fortunately, a few simple diagnostic steps can help you get your HP printer functioning again. In addition, HP has made available some troubleshooting software to identify the root of the problem.For cases where you are unable to fix issues yourself or using the provided software, you will need to take your printer to a professional. This guide shows you how to identify and fix the most common HP printer problems. Is Your HP Printer Not Working?Common symptoms of a printer malfunction include the following:The printer does not power on The printer produces ink-soiled prints The job does not get printed at all The prints are sent to the wrong printer Paper gets jammed If you see any of these troublesome signs, then it's possible your printer has malfunctioned and needs attention. The severity of the problem may be small enough that you can fix it yourself. Some printer malfunctions, however, require professional repairmen, especially for more expensive heavy duty printers. Before you go about calling the repairmen, you should see if the malfunction can't be addressed with a simple do-it-yourself fix.Learning How Your HP Printer WorksThere are two main types of printers available from HP, and it helps to be aware of how your specific model works.Inkjet printers - HP sells inkjet printers such as the HP Envy 4520, HP OfficeJet 4650, and HP OfficeJet Pro 7740. Inkjet printers work by shooting a very fine stream of ink at the paper. The parts of an inkjet printer include gears that move the paper, ribbon cable that conveys printing instructions, and print cartridge. Laser printers - HP also provides laser printers, including the HP LaserJet Pro Multi-function, HP LaserJet Enterprise, and others. In a laser printer, electronically operated ink guns are replaced with a laser beam that guides ink to form a print impression. A fuser unit then sticks toner to the paper. Diagnosing Common HP Printer ProblemsThere are some basic guidelines you can use to fix the HP printer problem you are having. First, if the printer won't print at all or does not light up, check that all cables are connected. These include power as well as Ethernet cables. You also need to check the wireless connection if the printer connects wirelessly.Next, if there is a paper jam, you will want to open up the paper feeding system and locate where the paper is clogged up. Then gently draw out the jumbled up paper and restart the printer. Other paper problems may be checked by looking at the paper feeding system as well.If, on the other hand, your printer has no discernible jams but you still can't print, it's time to check other parts are working correctly. In case the printer is printing but prints are soiled with ink or faint, then you might need to adjust your ink cartridge or toner. Sometimes your printer fails to print not because there is anything wrong with the machine, but the software is misconfigured. If this is your first time setting up the printer, verify that you have followed all the instructions for configuring it.How to Reach The HP Printers Help DeskHP makes support available via several web channels for getting in touch. The first option for getting quick answers to common problems is to visit the HP forum from their HP Support website.On the Support website, you will also have access to the online instant chat system which allows you to get in touch with HP reps. HP has a guided support system on their website that can help you find solutions to problems with your printer. You may also send a support request, which is routed to their help desk. For this you need the serial number of your HP printer. Options for Repair Work Despite your best efforts, sometimes your HP printer will have a mechanical breakdown or other hard faults. When this happens, your best course of action will be to bring it to some professionals for proper repair.HP has authorized support providers all around the United States. You can enter your ZIP code on HP's support website to locate authorized HP service providers.You might also have the option of shipping your product to HP and having them repair it for you. You will need to get in touch with their support representatives to explore this option. MORE FROM LIFE123.COM
